We had an amazing day in Nebraska City last week. Our field trip began at John Brown's Cave. We experienced what life may have been like for the slaves escaping from the South. We enjoyed our lunches and then moved on to the Morton mansion. There we broke into groups and went on a treasure hunt searching for clues about the life of the Morton family. Lastly, we went to Kimmel Orchard where we saw how they made cider, sorted apples, and enjoyed their famous apple donuts. As an added bonus, we happened to participate in an impromptu tour of UNL research lab on the Kimmel Orchard campus. We had a wonderful day! We look forward to our next field trip to DeSoto National Wildlife Refuge on Oct. 31.
